TELEGRAM

New Westminster, 5 January 1915

I today through official interpreter Mrs. Dalton made a very thorough examination upon mental condition of Mewa Singh and I find him to be well oriented, shows good retention and there is absolutely no evidence of delusions or hallucinations and although a devoted follower of his own creed shows no evidence of religious mania. He fully appreciates the character of his offense and also the penalty that it is necessary for him to pay. I therefore feel satisfied that the man is to all intents and purposes sane.
