Dear Baltej:

I wish to extend my personal thank you and express my appreciation for the commitment you made and the work that you did to enable the Community Interaction Week from February 14 to 18, 1994, to be a huge success. I particularly appreciate the work that you did to organize the forum on violence.

As you are aware, our intended outcomes were:

- * To help parents and our community understand what students are learning in our schools.
- * To develop awareness of parents, students, and community of present and future challenges and opportunities.
- * To improve our school/community interactions and relationships.

While we are still compiling the evaluations, all indications are that we surpassed our intended outcomes in a significant way by virtue of having over 1700 course registrations by more than 691 people, as well as unregistered participation in many of our forums. We also surpassed the goals that we had established for ourselves as a community planning group. The success of this conference can be directly attributed to your energy, commitment, and willingness as part of a community planning team to provide a quality conference around education issues for the Quesnel community.

While I recognize there were some initial concerns that required clarification and sorting out in our early meetings, the contribution that you and each of the members made throughout the planning and implementation of the Community Interaction Week conference activities is related directly to the willingness that you and each member of the committee made to ensure this would be a successful endeavor in our community.

Thank you again for teaming on this critically important event for our community. I look forward to the privilege of being able to work with you in some similar capacity in the future.

Sincerely,

Ed Napier
